Participation Form for the research project DEFT

The DEFT project involves a behavioural test and a detailed EEG measurement referring the results to international databases. Typically such an examination can be very expensive and it will be provided free for your participation in the research. If you are interested in taking part in the project DEFT, please leave your name and contact details below.

Participation is welcome from patients, usually through an association representing the patients. Examples of specific conditions that may be included are epilepsy, autism, paraplegia, blindness. Participation is also open to people with specific impairments and/or special abilities, for example dyslexia, eidetic memory. We also welcome healthy persons interested in having a detailed general EEG examination; they will make up the control group of our study.

Practical considerations demand that a condition requiring specialized equipment or preparation for the measurements and/or the presence of qualified medical personnel can only be included in the project if a group of at least five (5) patients agrees to participate.
